About Pintail Coffee

Our founders represent a diverse array of minority and female immigrants who have witnessed the devastation from food insecurity, around the world. Their strong desire to end hunger is what inspired the creation of Pintail Coffee. Our charitable and premium coffee roasting company is locally operated from Farmingdale, New York.

Zaki Hossain, a Pintail Founder, got his start in the coffee industry during his involvement in the development of the very first K-Cup manufacturing technology. This sparked the idea to use this technology for charitable efforts through the creation of premium coffee products.

We are about people, process and product. Our state of the art, roasting and packaging facility is located right on Long Island, NY.

The Pintail Ownership increases the impact on hunger by not taking compensation of any kind so that every dollar can go to those directly in need. Our purpose is to turn a great cup of coffee into an act of kindness.
